

PRESIDENT'S LETTER

By Paul Knoop, the framemakers, Tacoma

September--the month of Labor Day--we all know about work, don't we?, and the month schools resume. Education is one of the main purposes of EPFG, as it is stated in our Bylaws and in our incorporation with the State; it is what we are all about. Take advantage of the educational opportunities offered at our monthly meetings, and let us know what you would like to know more about.

Better yet, volunteer to present a specialty of yours for the group at one of our meetings.

For those of you with access to the Internet and the World Wide Web, there are almost unlimited sites available to improve the way we handle our art works. Some of them are a little out of the way, and you may just stumble on them unless some other framer passes the site on to you. So, let me pass a few on to you which you may choose to check out. The easiest way to locate most of our suppliers is to go to a site which has "links" to them. A good starting point is Picture Framing Magazine's site at <http://pictureframe.com> to locate these links and other framing information. Do a fair amount of needlearn framing? Visit the DMC site at <http://dmc-usa.com> for care and cleaning instructions for needlearn works. Great to pass on to your customers, especially when you don't want to launder for them. If you are interested in learning more about conservators and restoration, try the American Institute for Conservation home page, at <http://palimpsest.stanford.edu/aic/> for information on how to's, where, when, and who. For more on fabric conservation, visit <http://coff.com>, the site of Conservators of Fine Fabrics (a business site, but much useful information). Hopefully you are familiar with FACTS and their standards setting goals. To learn more, visit <http://facts1.org>. Of course, don't forget to try the links from any of the sites you visit, you never can tell when something will just grab you. Also, don't forget to bookmark for future reference those you will want to check into again.

On the subject of education, this month's meeting will be a continuation of the fabric mat session presented by Frank Chavez in July. More details, some tricks of the trade by Kiyoshi and me, and any others who have good ideas to share. By the way, if you missed Frank's presentation, or need to refresh your memory, go to <http://falconeast.com> on the web for photos and a step-by-step "how to". Don't forget that October is National Picture Framing Month. November's meeting will be a special one, and I am asking for your help now so we may gain the maximum benefit. Julie Freeman, the Executive Director of PPFA, has agreed to meet with us to provide an update on their rebuilding; she will answer our questions about where they are going, and how they expect to get there. In order to effectively satisfy our concerns, I would like to provide her with your questions in advance so that she may properly research the answers and be well prepared for her visit. Questions, in writing please, may be given to any of the Board members or sent to me by mail, email, or fax.
